PLANS COMPLETED FOR BOY SCOUTS COMPOREE TO START ON SATURDAY

All Township Troops To Be Represented At High School

A meeting of all district scouters was held at Washington Union High school Monday evening .Plans for the big Boy Scout Camporee to be held atWashington Union High school May 6 and 7 were discussed. Walter Johnson, of Irvington, chairman of the activities committee, was in charge of the assembly.

All troops in this township will be represented at the camporee, which is expected to be the greatest of its kind ever held outside of Oakland. Scouts will enter the grounds of the High school at twelve noon Saturday, May 6. They will carry on their backs all equipment and supplies needed for a two day stay. Camps will be set up and the boys will work by patrols, doing their own cooking and other camp work.

All those interested in Boy Scouts and their activities are urged to visit them some time during their two day sojourn and see just how a scout conducts himself when he has to rely on his own resources.

U. C. ENTOMOLOGIST TELLS CIVIC BODY OF ALFALFA PEST

Niles Business Men Hear A. E. Michelbacher On Weevil

A. E. Michelbacher, University of California entomologist, spoke before the Niles Chamber of Commerce Monday on the characteristics of the alfalfa weevil and the possibility of its seriousness in Wahington township. Michelbacher, who has been working on the problem for the past few weeks, stated that although the infestations was rather widespread in Alameda county, the chances for its survival were small unless conditions of weather ideal for its life set in. The severity of the spring thus far is aiding somewhat in checking the pest.

Michelbacher discussed the historical aspect of the insects' presence in intensively cultivated regions of the world. He also spoke at length on measurers being taken to combat the spread o fthe infection.

At the beginning of the meeting, Lester Duffey, in a few laudatory words, presented the president of the chamber with an inscribed gavel, the occasion being the birthday anniversary of the presiding officer.

Harvey Braun brought up the question of Niles' part in the Livermore rodeo, and suggested that the chamber sponsor a "jackass polo team," which is being formed locally. It was moved, seconded and unanimously carried that the Niles body would furnish mallets, balls and shirts bearing a Niles Chamber inscription to the players. It was concluded that the publicity gained thereby would more than offset the cost, which is to be slight. Those who are to make up the team from the township are Al Vieux, V. Denton, Joe Ferrera and A. Andrade.

In a financial report of the Wild Flower show, A. J. Petsche announced that the total expenditures amounted to $51.75 out of an appropriation of $60. The announcement was loudly approved.

E. F. Glassbrook was appointed as membership chairman for the next meeting.

According to rumors along the main street of Niles, the fire house is soon to receive a new spring covering of paint. Paint will be furnished by the commissioners and members of the fire department will wield the brushes, it is said.

MARAUDERS AGAIN VISIT NILES R. R. YARDS

On last Thursday night, thieves again molested property of the Southern Pacific Company at Niles. Evidently in search of edibles or shipments of cigarettes, prowlers smashed a lock on the door of the freight house, gained entrance and broke open several packing cases. The fact that nothing was taken proves that the marauders were disappointed in their quest.

Whether the miscreants were of this locality or aa transitory character is not known. Situation of the station and freight house in the path of large numbers of tramps and indigents is conducive to thievery attempts which are spared to the rest of the town. If the recurrent burglaries are the work of local talent, their apprehension is just a question of time, authorities say.

DECOTO ACCIDENT

In an accident at the intersection of H and Fourth streets in Decoto last Saturday, the sedan of G. Hernandez, Decoto man, was badly wrecked when it was struck by a small roadster driven by an Oakland woman. The crash was due to faulty brakes of the small vehicle. Neither Hernandez nor the occupants of the other car were hurt.

MASKED BANDITS ROB CENTERVILLE STORE

TWO BOYS HELD FOR AUTOMOBILE THEFT BY OAKLAND POLICE

Both Confess To Burglary Of Irvington Service Station Friday

Oakland police reported to Deputy Sheriff Hugo Radbruch Monday that two youths apprehended in Oakland for the theft of a sedan had confessed to the burglary of the Cortez service station in Irvington Friday night. When taken into custody by officers, the boys gave their names as Raymond Ward and Robert Taylor. No home address was given. They are being held in the Oakland city jail.

Access into the service station was gained through a broken window. Several dollars' worth of merchandise and automobile accessories was reported to have been stolen. So far no attempt has been made to connect the crimes in Newark and Irvington, but mode of entry is almost identical in each case, it is said.

DRUNKEN DRIVER APPREHENDED ON NILES STREETS

Fred Leana, of San Jose, was arrested in Niles Monday by State Motorcycle Officer Duffy Lewis on a charge of drunken driving. Deciding that Leana was in no condition to control his car, even as far as the Niles jail, Lewis drove to a Niles garage where he telephoned to Constable O. E. Ebright to bring the keys to the bastille. Leana, as soon as he found himself alone, regained enough of his senses to make a dash for liberty. He was recaptured after a short chase and rendered harmless by the application of handcuffs. He will face Judge J. A. Silva on Friday afternoon for sentence.

K. Nakamura Victim Of Hold-up Men On Monday Night

On Monday evening at 8:15 p. m., two masked men entered K. Nakamura's grocery store in Centerville and robbed Nakamura of a sum amounting to $35.

Nakamura and his wife were in the store, when the bandits, one brandishing a knife and the other holding a heavy calibre revolver, quitely walked in and demanded access to the safe. Nakamura was forced to open the safe in which the burglars found nothing, and was then told to take his family into the bedroom and be quiet. Just a few seconds before the thieves appeared, Nakamura had removed $150 from the till and placed it in his pocket. His presence of mind in offering his trouser pockets for a search drew the thieves attention from the money secreted in his jacket. After taking the money left in the cash register, as well as Nakamura's gold watch and chain and automatic pistol, the bandits demanded the store keys, then tied the proprietor hand and foot. The bandits left by the back door after warning Nakamura to be silent for fifteen minutes.

According to the proprietor, the two men seemed extremely nervous, indicating the fact that they were novices at the game. Nakamura thought the hold-up was a practical joke until he noticed the blunt noses of large calibre cartridges in the bandit's weapon. The storekeeper obeyed all instructions of the thieves to avoid any injury to his family, all of whom were in the store at the time.

Monday night's robbery is the second one in seven years suffered by Nakamura. Two years ago, thieves broke into the back of his store and obtained about $40 from the cash register.

According to Tom Silva, Centervilel constable, two strange men were seen walking in the vecinity of Nakamura's store periodically since last Saturday. One of the men at the Southern Pacific station saw the robbers leave the store but had no suspicion of what had taken place.

Nakamura said he was glad the thieves chose Monday night, if any, as he had some $175 in the cash register on the day before. He also stated that it might be a wise policy for him to close his establishment at an earlier hour hereafter.

NEWARK HOMES AGAIN INVADED BY THIEVES

Several Dollars Stolen From Baby's Bank Saturday Night

Thieves broke into two homes and a service station in Newark Sunday night and in each place jewelry and other articles were taken. Mr. and Mrs. W. Wyatt reported the first robbery Sunday evening, after they had returned from a short drive and discovered that a door had been forced, affording means of entry for the thives, who took a gold watch and a loaded automatic pistol belonging to Wyatt.

Cecil Lawrence informed Constable Silva of the second burglary, which resulted in the loss of two gold watches and several dollars stolen from a baby's bank, that was found broken open.

Mrs. E. Blair, manager of a service station in Newark, reported that about one o'clck Sunday night she heard someone say, "O. K., let's go;" and immediately after a car started and drove away from the station. It was not discovered until Monday morning that the service station had been entered and various articles stolen.

Officials in charge of investigation of the crimes report that one person or group of persons had committed the various acts of vandalism as entry had been gained in about the same way in each place. A thorough search is being conducted by the officers in an attempt to apprehend the thieves.

Recently Newark has been the scene of several robberies and cases of illegal entry and officials report that everything possible is being done to stop this local crime wave.

The Home Against the Stable

In vetoing the pari-mutuel race track bill, Governor Rolph attempted a little dramatics when he said: "I stand with the home against the stable."

Rolph standing with the home! Well, well, that's a good one. Vetoing the racing bill on moral grounds. Moral grounds—get that.

Perhaps, after all, he is sincere. Perhaps he is an old brand snatched from the burning. Perhaps visiting the temple of morality at San Simeon, brought the light to his darkened soul.

In the transplanted ancient castle on Hearst's vast estate stretching along the Pacific, our governor, spending a week-end amid an atmosphere surcharged with Hollywood righteousness, it is not at all surprising that he should return to Sacramento a "Champion of the Home!"

On moral grounds! Is there no lengths to which political hyprocracy will not go? How shallow the mind of our jazz governor that he thinks even a moron would take him seriously when he proclaims that he stands for the home and morality.

Is it not bad enough that we must suffer this wasteful and stupid regime at Sacramento without its alleged leader insulting our intelligence by assuming that you and we would swallow such triviality from a notorious "liberal" and industrious disciple of the spoils system as—

Something May Have Escaped

With the state assembly and senate wasting valuable time and doing no constructive good for anyone, business men and citizens in the state are growing desperate over the delayed relief from tax burden.

California is on the very verge of bankruptcy. Its treasury is empty, and the state administration is at this very moment assiduously seeking a loan from the national government that it may continue to function through the summer months. This is a fact. In the face of so grave a danger, it would seem that drastic cuts in state government would be effected with speed, and that special privilege groups would be crushed with little or no ceremony.

If you have read the papers closely you know that balancing the budget is still but a political shibboleth; its realization far off, if not impossible;

Lose Powers of Flight

After the young of whistling swans are hatched the parent birds moult so extensively that they lose their power of flight and are at the mercy of the natives who kill them in large numbers in their nesting areas in the Far North. Two Brothers Were Governors

John and William Bigler were elected governors of their states, California and Pennsylvania, on the same day in 1851. Both were born in Pennsylvania, of German descent. John Bigler went to California at the time of the gold rush and was elected governor for two terms. He was born in 1804 and died in 1871. William Bigler was born in 1814 and died in 1880. He served as governor of Pennsylvania and also as United States senator from that state.

Democratic Presidential Candidates in 1860-1864

Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois and Herschel V. Johnson of Georgia were the Democratic candidates for President and Vice President in 1860. Douglas had broken with President Buchanan and the southern Democrats and consequently lost the support of the South. He carried only the states of Missouri and New Jersey, receiving 12 electoral votes, 9 from Missouri and 3 from New Jersey.

The Democrats of the South organized the Independent Democratic party and named John C. Breckenridge of Kentucky as their candidate for President, and Joseph Lane of Oregon for Vice President. Breckenridge received 72 electoral votes, as follows: Alabama 9, Arkansas 4, Delaware 3, Florida 3, Georgia 10, Louisiana 6, Maryland 8, Mississippi 7, North Carolina 10, South Carolina 8, and Texas 4.

George B. McClellan of New Jersey was the Democratic candidate for President in 1864. His running mate was George H. Pendleton of Ohio. McClellan carried Delaware, which gave him 3 votes; Kentucky, which gave him 11, and New Jersey, 7 votes.

Kabbeljaws

The Kabbeljaws (in Dutch Kabeljauws or Kabeljauwschen) were opposed to the Hooks (Hoeks). Motley holds that the Kabbeljaws were fundamentally the party of the cities against the nobles, but most other historians believe that the Kabbeljaws were originally the party of the nobility. At any rate, the origins of the two parties were eventually indistinct and unimportant; there were cities on either side and nobles on both sides. Kabbeljaw means "codfish."

Minnows Make This Man Independently Wealthy

Port Huron, Mich.—When Charles C. Day sold a 11-quart pail of minnows for $1 some 30 years ago, he unconsciously founded a business that was to make him independently wealthy within three decades.

From his start with a pail of minnows, Day developed the idea of selling fish bait to reap a profit of $50,000 last year. He supplies fresh or "canned" minnows, grasshoppers, crawfish, angleworms, salmon eggs and pork rind to sporting goods store in every section of the country.

Fails to Turn Sand to Gold; Gets Pen

Paris.—The age-old alchemist's dream of transmuting base substances into precious gold was blasted once more in the Seine correctional court when John Dunikowski, Polish inventor, was sentenced to prison for failing to make gold out of sand as he had promised his financial backers.

Dunikowski was sentenced to two years' imprisonment and fined 100 francs. The court decided "his secret process for turning sand into gold is an impracticable combination of absurdities and contradictions."

He was ordered to refund his backers 2,500,000 francs ($975,000) which they had advanced him.

The case has been the sensation of France. Dunikowski told his backers he could reap a fabulous profit by creating gold from a ton of sand daily. His supporters, who included prominent men and members of nobility, looked forward to vast fortunes.

SEES COSMIC RAYS AS FUTURE ENERGY

Professor Piccard Says Power Will Cost Little.

Washington.—Cosmic rays may be the energy of the future, harnessed energy which will light cities, motivate industries and drive airplanes through the stratosphere at tremendous speeds, Prof. August Piccard, the Swiss physicist who ascended ten miles in a balloon, told an audience in the Washington auditorium in his first lecture in this country.

Speaking before the National Geographic society, the famous stratosphere explorer said it is "high time" man should be preparing to replace the earth's dwindling coal supplies with a new source of energy, which he believes will be the cosmic rays, which shower continuously on the earth from the sky.

"The transformation of the atoms of three drops of water," he said, "would produce enough cosmic rays and enough energy and motor power to light up the whole city of Washington through a whole night."

Cosmic rays are produced by a "modification of atoms" not yet understood, he explained, which releases tremendous energy, and "when we are able to manufacture these rays artificially on earth we will be able to utilize that vast energy, and can snatch out of a handful of air, from a source now invisible, sufficient energy to operate hundreds of high-powered machines."

Cosmic rays are the energy of the future," he added, "and when this source of power is made available, producing limitless energy free, almost what coal remains in the earth's veins will suddenly become valueless."

The cosmic rays are penetrating like the rays from radium, but a million times more powerful, Professor Piccard said.

Hawks and Owls Slay Mice

If you do not think that hawks and owls do a valuable service to man in the destruction of large numbers of meadow mice each year, the following computation worked out for the Book of Popular Science on the rate of increase of these small rodent pests may be of interest to you. "Meadow mice have from five to ten young at a litter. If all the young mice should live, it would take less than five years for the offspring from each pair to number over three million."

She Might Have Explained

By ALICE DUANE

WHEN Mrs. Hanford managed to get Terry alone in their tiny stateroom, crowded almost to overflowing with handbags, cameras, golf bags, magazines, boxes of candy, flowers and books, she looked at her daughter intently and suggested firmly that she had on altogether too much rouge. "You know your father and I don't object to a little, but you look positively theatrical."

Terry assured her mother that her face was rougeless and rubbed the flawless skin of her pretty cheeks with her handkerchief to prove her innocence.

"Then you must have a fever," decided Mrs. Hanford.

"Just excitement—" Terry told her and dear Mrs. Hanford believed that the excitement was due entirely to the fact that now after all these years of anticipation they were finally going abroad. Not just going for a few summer months, but for over a year of gorgeous adventure, made possible by the fact that Terry's first year out of college coincided with Professor Hanford's year's leave of absence.

And as they hurried out of the stateroom to rejoin their friends who had come to see them off, Mrs. Hanford reflected that among all the good people who had come to wish them a "bon voyage" not one had come on Terry's invitation.

"I'm sorry," she told her daughter, "you didn't have some of your own friends here."

"Oh, well," said Terry, "you know father doesn't like to have young people around very much, and there's hardly anyone here in the city anyway."

"But you expected Bob Taylor—didn't you?" Bob Taylor was one of Terry's friends of whom her parents entirely approved.

Terry was about to explain away her disappointment at Bob Taylor's nonappearance when they reached the deck and found the young man in question in the circle assembled round the beaming professor. Seeing Terry, he broke away, greeted Mrs. Hanford and accepted Terry's invitation to make a tour of inspection."

"We'll be back—soon," she called back. "There's half an hour more before people have to go ashore."

Terry hurried Bob to a secluded corner of the writing room. "Something rather terrible has happened," she told him. "I left my passport and ticket at the hotel. I wouldn't dare tell father. He'd be furious. But if I take a taxi I can go to the hotel and get back."

"I'll have to go at once. You stay here and explain. Tell them everything will be all right. And if it comes time for visitors to go ashore, you come ashore and wait for me. Don't let them come ashore, whatever else you do. Tell them you'll arrange to get me at the last minute."

Bob made some unsuccessful attempts to explain to the Hanfords who were too absorbed in their friends to think much about their daughter. It was not until the first signal for visitors to go ashore that Bob managed to make them understand.

An hour later Bob watched the last glimpse of the liner going down the bay. And then quietly, from somewhere, appeared Terry, looking entirely serene and unhurried.

"Here I am," she told him. "But don't do anything about it till I explain."

"But maybe we can charter a tugboat or something," he said. "I promised them I'd—and it's all right about your passport and ticket. Your father had them all the time."

"Of course he did," Terry told him. "I didn't go to the hotel. I just stood out on West street until the boat had gone. It was just out of the question any way you put it. Father's a dear and I admire him, but being together, morning, noon and night for over a year would be unthinkable."

"Well, of course I'm glad, Terry—that is, I couldn't endure the thought of not seeing you for so long, and I wouldn't be able to get over even next summer—but what are you going to do? I mean, you'll have to send a wireless as soon as possible to let them know you're safe and what you are going to do—"

"Maybe you better figure that out," Terry told him. "You tell them I'm safe and everything OK and I'll write them so they'll have a letter by the time they land."

"Terry's safe. We have decided to be married at once. Letter following."

NILES GARAGEMAN HAS BICYCLE DISPLAY

Speaking of what many of us have been calling "progress," Ed Rose is back to the business which he started in Niles many years ago. In addition to his display of glittering automobiles, Rose has a row of shiny new bicycles.

Rose has had his bicycles ordered for some time, but due to a recent popularity of bicycling in the large bay cities, he had not been able to corner a shipment from overworked cycle manufacturerers. By hustling into San Francisco last week, Rose intercepted a carload of bikes, and managed to secure about a dozen. He said the rest were snapped up immediately by San Francisco dealers.

Roses bicycles are of extra durable construction, featuring heavy tubular frames, double front forks and sturdy pedals. Since he is renting them out, this extra durabality is necesary, according to the dealer.

In the opinion of many, bicycling is back to stay. People have recently insisted that there is no particular rush any more, and that gasoline has a disagreeable odor after all. In large cities about the bay the cycling problem has become acute. Traffic officers, schooled in handling automobiles ae nonplussed by the scurrying bikes.

Many residents have expressed their eagerness to witness the spectacle of Niles business men peddling furiously in the wake of equally zealous schoolboys, all bound for their respective destinations. In the event of a rumored bicycle club in the township, the old traffice ordinances concerning bicycle road etiquette had better be hauled down from the legal attic and dusted off.

MOSQUITO BREEDING LESSENED BY DISTRICT

More than 500 mosquito fish were placed in watering troughs near Centerville and Irvington last week by Roland Bendel, inspection for the Alameda County Mosquito Abatement District. Mosquito fish are extremely effective in preventing mosquito breeding in small bodies of water such as water troughs and ornamental ponds.

During the week Bendel excavated 425 feet of additional drainage ditch on Mallard Marsh, and oiled stagnant pools along a half mile of railroad near Irvington. House to house inspection, including 134 homes, were inspected in Decoto, Alvarado and Centerville during which sixty-one cess pools and similar mosquito breeding places were oiled.

HAYWARD DISTRICT CONGRESS LAUDS NILES P.-T.A.

Very favorable comment was earned by the Niles Parent-Teachers Association at the Parent-Teachers District Congress last Monday and Tuesday at Hayward High school. A special resolution was drawn up to thank Mrs. Harvey Braun for supplying corsages to the congress for both days of its session.

Mrs. George Bonde, chairman of publicity for the Niles chapter, receive high praise, when it was announced that the Niles publicity book, compiled under her care, had won first place in the council and honorary mention in the district. Special request was extended to the Niles chapter to attend the state convention at Long Beach early this month. Mrs. Bonde was asked to enter her publicity collected in the contest at that gathering.

MASS MEETING FOR TAX PAYERS SOON TO BE CALLED

A meeting of the General Committee of the Washington Township Taxpayers' League was held April 28, at the Washington union high school. Chairmen of the School and Welfare committees reported on their activities and a new general county expenditure committee was named.

It is said that, due to reluctance on the part of various county and district departments to furnish information required by the committees of the Tax Payers' League on expenditures, an executive meeting is to be held sometime this week to discover a means of obtaining this necessary data through the board of supervisors. In some cases of investigation it has been impossible for the committees to carry on in the face of refusals of co-operation by county and district departments.

Soon after the meeting this week a mass meeting will be called at the high school, and facts so far uncovered will be laid before the public.

Officials of the Tax Payers' League state that suggestions from interested persons in the township will be gladly accepted, and that any person desiring any information may communicate with the chairman of their local committee, or with the Tax Payers League.

Jesse Regli's Washington High Cornhuskers went on a base-running spree last Friday to smother the Amador dons beneath a score of 15 to 3. Well on the way to the league championship, the Centerville team was not to be menaced at any time during the game. Amador collected five hits to score three times, while Washington stretched eleven hits into fifteen runs.

A. J. RATHBONE CEASES TO LIVE IN CENTERVILLE

Astonishment and conjecture were rife among Centerville residents last week when news filtered about that A. J. Rathbone, principal of Washington Union high chool, was forsaking their city to tak up his abode in the surburbs of Niles. On leaving his Centerville home, whichh was directly across the street from the high school grounds, Rathbone moved into the old Ellsworth mansion, on the ranch of E. A. Ellsworth, Niles insurance agent.

LARGE ATTENDANCE SEES 'TOREADORS' FRIDAY NIGHT

Those who attended the operetta "Toreadors" at the high school last Friday night are sincere in their praise of that production. Many of the participants in the play showed histrionic ability of outstanding excellence. Scenes of the beggar and the bull evoked uproarous laughter from the audience. Edna Salmon's solo, "I will be true to you," was one of the high spots, her rendition of the song being almost professional. Choruses throughout the production were well fitted to the theme and rendered with proper emphasis. Olive Perry and Joe Hernandez were applauded for their Spanish dances between the acts.

It is said that no better production of a light nature has been staged at the high school at Centerville. The large attendance vouched for this.

Miss Elizabeth Dusterberry entertained the Birthday Club at her home on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. W. L. McWhirter was the guest of honor.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL PLAYDAY AT HIGH SCHOOL TOMORROW

Children Will Participate In Track Events and Games

Children of the grammar schools of Washington township will participate in the annual Play Day to be held at the Washington Union High school grounds tomorrow. For many years it has been the custom of the township schools to congregate at the high school field and engage in games and in track and field events. There is something for every child to do, and no one ever feels that he is excluded because of inaptitude or lack of physical endurance.

Track and field events are divided into groups, with children of different weights being entered in their respective divisions. Athletic events are not only for the boys, but for the girls as well. Baseball teams of the numerous grammar schools meet in regular games tomorrow to decide final supremacy in the township. Centerville's unlimited team will meet Mission San Jose, while the 100-pound team will meet Newark.

The day is in the nature of a local Olympic Games, and from the grammar school child's point of view is the last word in an exciting time.

'THE CHARM SCHOOL' SENIOR PLAY IN JUNE

Early in June, the senior class of Washington Union High school will produce the play, "The Charm School," as the senior play for this year. With the assistance of Miss Aubrey Nicely, the cast has bees chosen and rehearsals started.

"The Charm School" is peculiarly adaptable to a youthful cast, as nearly all of the characters portrayed require a young person for the part. As a high school play, the "Charm School should be excellent.

CENTRAL BANKERS BEAT HODGKINS FORDS 10-9

Hodgkins' Ford Baseball club, recently formed class "A" semi-pro team at Centerville, lost a stiff and close game last Sunday to the Central Bank club of Oakland at Centerville high school diamond. Final score, indicative of the equality of the teams, was 10 for the bankers and 9 for Hodgkins' aggregation. Pitchers of both teams upset baseball legend by hammering out a home run apiece. Degermark, Centerville hurler, got his in the sixth inning, while Crosby, banker pitcher, opened the game with a homer in the first. Perry, Centerville outfielder, chalked up the best batting average for the game when he hit a homer, a double and a single in five trips to the plate. The total of fourteen hits collected by Hodgkins' team was not quite enough to add the needed two runs for a win.

Next Sunday's game is scheduled with the O. K. Battery team of Oakland. Hodgkins is confident of a victory this time, saying that the rough edges of his outfit have been smoothed off. Semi-pro teams in the bay region are anxiout to get games with the Fords, Hodgkins says.

CORNHUSKERS PLAY HAYWARD SAT. FOR TITLE

Washington Union High school baseball team, victorious so far this season, will clash with the Hayward farmers at Hayward this afternoon.

The outcome of this game will decide the championship of the Southern Alameda County league. A Washington win will clinch the title for Centerville, while a Hayward victory will end the season in a triple tie between Emeryville, Hayward and Washington.

Coach Jesse Regli is working hard with his team this week, ironing out small flaws in the infield and concentrating on batting practice. Regli is confident that his boys will bring home the championship pie.

Group To Hear Football Leader Speak On Sports' Objective

Centerville Lions Club will have an unusual meeting next Tuesday night, if Dudley De Groot, former Stanford football star and present coach at San Jose State College, consents to speak on the development of football in California, and its relation to sports. Jesse Regli, Washington Union High school coach, Centerville, is making an effort to secure De Groot as the speaker, and his success is almost assured. Football fans hereabout will remember De Groot as the rangy center and captain of Stanford's team in 1926.

According to Frank Madruga, Lions' president, a program of songs and numbers of collegiate nature will be led by E. Bellici, high school music instructor.

Members of the Lions Cub are looking forward to the meeting, in expectation of its being one of their best so far. Madruga invites public interest, and says that a limited number of reservations will be available for those who make arrangements beforehand. For some time, Madruga said, the Lions have been anxious to hold a meeting of this nature, and much is expected of it.

Amador Stage Craft Group Does Good Work

The stage craft group of the Amador Valley high school, under the direction of Mrs. Anita Smith have shown some good work in their line of study in connection with making all stage settings and scenery for the shows which have been given at the high school since January.

The beautiful settings and the lighting effects seen in the recent operetta were done by this group. The background used for the Public Schools Week program on Wednesday evening was also prepared by this class.

The class is now working on the scenery to be used in the Senior play, which will be presented in June.

BIG W IS PAINTED ON AMADOR SCHOOL WALK

Constable Albert E. Vervais, of Pleasanton, is working on clues leading to the guilty parties who painted a large W on the steps and sidewalk leading to the side door entrance of the Amador Valley school.

According to reports given by Vervais, the W was painted on over the previous week-end. A large rock was thrown through a window, and it is thought that the same persons did all the damage.

CHURCH GUILD TO HOLD AFTERNOON PICNIC AT NILES

An annual picnic will be given by the Niles Church Guild in the garden of Mrs. E. A. Ellsworth this afternoon. An interesting feature of the affair will be the admission of the members as to who has been their "capsule friend" during the past year.

At a meeting earlier in the year each member drew the name of some other member in a small capsule. During the months following pains were taken by the members to be of service to their "capsule friend."

BRISKER MOVEMENT IN FRUIT EXPORTS OF STATE REPORTED

Increase In Shipments For March Noticed In Dried Products

Bureau of foreign and domestic commerce has recently reported a heavier movement in both dried and fresh fruit cargoes on the west coast; outbound values for March being some $155,844 greater than those of February.

San Francisco, which exported the bulk of canned and dried fruits, showed good gains in shipments, while Los Angeles produced a similar gain in fresh fruits. San Francisco's total export gain was almost once again as great as the Los Angeles increase, which fact points to a brisker movement in the canned and dried products than in the fresh. In spite of the recent raise in export tonnages this spring, the level for 1932 has not yet been reached, which means that ware houses still have quantities of last year's crop on hand. Pros and cons on the price to be paid farmers for the 1933 crop have not as yet indicated whether the price will be higher or lower than that of last year.

SCHUCKL CANNERY OPENS FOR SHORT FRUIT SALAD RUN

The Shuckl Cannery Company at Niles opened on onday, May 1, for a week's run on fruit salad. Officials there said that it is unlikely that the present activity will last much longer than Friday.

Whether or not the cannery will run to any great extent on apricots this season, officials were unabel to say. Plans of the cannery here are always of great interest to the town of Niles, since runs of any gerat uration furnish work to numbers of Niles people.

DISTRICT BUDGETS SYSTEM MAY BE CHANGED

According to reports from district officials in Washington township it is likely that a bill now before the assembly concerning changes in district budget distribution will be defeated. The bill provides for district budgets to be under direct control of the board of supervisors, who would be empowered to fix the sums distributed to amounts they thought necessary.

As it is, budgets are mandatory, each district receiving amounts petitioned from the county. It is generally held that the defeat of this bill is necessary to maintain the efficient service of the districts, since each unit is better capable of judging its own requirements than is a remote centeralized board.

Frost Danger Past Says San Jose Bureau

Farmers in the southern part of the Santa Clara Valley may sleep later each morning than has been their want so far this spring. San Jose Meteorologists consider the danger of killing frost sufficiently reduced to warrant the discontinuation of frost warnings.

According to the San Jose weather bureau, damage to valley crops has been greatly minimized by timely frost signals. Late spring frosts often do great damage to buds and to the tender foliage after winter dormancy.

DECOTO WAGES LOSING BATTLE IN RAILROAD STATION CONTROVERSY

Judgment Of Commission Deferred Until New Hearing Held

Decoto's effort to retain its station has been temporarily nullified by a decision of the railroad commission to defer the final 'udgment of the case until further facts are investigated.

At the mass meeting last Friday, held at the Decoto firehouse, it was decided by the investigating committee that all testimony necessary to a just settlement had not as yet been unearthed. Shippers and farmers of the Decoto district stated their opinions on the problem. All insisted on the necessity of full railroad service to them, saying that a removal of the station would greatly handicap their business from a financial point of view as well as made their hauling much more inconvenient.

In the opinion of many washington township people, Decoto's fight is going to be a hopeless one. The railroad case, based on facts showing the loss incurred by the station last year and so far this year, is a hard one to refute. One of the main supports for the Decoto cause has been lost. The express company withdrew its support with the decision to place its Decoto affairs in connection with freight in the hands of a Decoto cannery official. The only organized defense remaining to the town was the effort of the railroad telegraphers' union to maintain the station as a telegraph branch, but it is generally conceded that assistance from this source will be feeble.

TOUR OF BETTER HOMES, LIBRARIES ATTRACTS MANY

About one hundred and fifty women from southern Alameda county went on the better homes, libraries and farm bureau tour on last Friday. Many Niles women accampanied the group.

At Livermore inspection was made of a model home owned by Mrs. E. Wilson, from where the group was taken to the Del Valle sanitarium. Dr. Monroe of that instituton took the group through and explained various phases of the care of children there. Lunch was eaten around the outdoor swimming pool. During the luncheon the group listened to talks by librarian of Del Valle, Miss Barmby, of Alameda county libraries, and Mrs. Roland Bendel.

From Del Valle the tour proceeded to the Rutter ranch near Livermore, where farm bureau members were given a demonstration on canning tomato juice. On the return trip, the party stopped at Niles branch of the Alameda County Free Library, in the Jane Clough Memorial building. According to those who went on the tour, the day was one of instructive value.

BAY SALT INDUSTRY OF WORLD WIDE IMPORTANCE

Although the salt industry in Alameda county has been developing for many years, there are relatively few people who realize its importance in world-wide terms. It is not along every salt water bay that the evaporation of salt water is possible. The United States, which from a standpoint of salt means Alameda county, is the third largest salt producer in the world at the present time. Coastal exploitation in the salt industry requires a climate that is found in few regions of the world.

The type of climate necessary is termed "Mediterranean," which name is derived from the prevalence of the climatic type about that sea. For the profitable evaporation of salt water, the dry and warm seasons must occur together and be of long duration. Weather in this region is ideal, and the broad expanses of salt water marsh land have been converted into evaporation pans at a minimum cost. In this natural method of crystallizing salt from sea water, Alameda county is the world's foremost producer. Germany, which leads in total salt production, employs the mining method. Shafts are sunk into tremendously thick layers of rock salt beneath the surface. Hot water is pumped down to dissolve the solid substance which is later recrystallized above ground.

The exaporation method, used near Newark and at other points along San Francisco bay, is the cheapest and most effective of any type of salt recovery known. The importance of the industry is of world-wide nature.

NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register of accomplishment by a legislature whose ear is yet attuned to the wail of office holder and high salaried racketeer.

There are some very good and sincere men at Sacramento—men who are willing to antagonize powerful tax-eating groups—like the school machine for instance—that our economic structure may be strengthened by rigid economy. They are willing to stand out against the plunderbund at the cost of their political future. They are patriots, and fearless and honest men. But the pity; they are in the minority.

Under an economy program lopping off soft jobs here and there, the legislator is impressed by interested delegations protesting their amputation from the state pay rolls. They are more impressed by these delegations than they are by the threatening clouds overhanging a sky full of revolutionary lightening. So what do they do? just this--

Search out new ways of taxing. Perhaps something has escaped. A sales tax is suggested. An iniquitous suggestion. If acted upon, but a means to further depress business and crush the man who has only a few nickels for bread and soup.

A generation of soft living, loose morals, defiance of God, and no religion has, evidently, rendered the public incapable of intelligent and forceful action.

Unless the right thing is done and that thing done without much delay here and elsewhere in America, our entire economic and political structure will fall; the work of centuries will crumble in the dust, and from the tangled mass of anarchy the aching hands of age will again attempt to build anew.

Come Back Next Week

Monday the writer wanted to look into the school records. We had heard that they were open to the public—even an alleged hostile public. So we sent our representative over to the high school just to look over the expenditures.

But the principal said the "open" books were "closed," so far as the Register was concerned until the school board gave consent. An attempt was made to get that consent. It was denied for this week, but on the 10th it was thought that in the presence of the entire school board we might glance through the documents.

Now, when you go to the court house and ask to see any public record the official does not tell you to come back ten days hence, but gets the particular book or paper you wish to see right then and there.

The Register thought that the records at Centerville had some interesting news for the taxpayer and wanted to give it to you in this issue of the paper. But the school board said no. A sort of a semi-private business, apparently.

Well, the Register will see the records. We may have to go to court to do so, but we will prove to the school people that someone else besides a hand-picked investigating committee has access to what goes on at Washington Union high school.

Taxed for Cussing; Money Is Used to Build Church

La Guayra, Venezuela, little known to ships only a few years ago, has become exceedingly popular of late. Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, is reached by an ascent up a magnificent highway. It is only seven miles by airline from La Guayra, but 23 over the tortuous road which winds upward through some of the most striking scenery in northern South America. La Guayra is interesting for its "Inglesia de la Santisima Carramba"—the Church of the Most Holy Damn. This edifice was built with the proceeds of fines paid to a priest by those of his parishioners who were accomplished in profanity and were taxed for each cuss words they used.

Cartagena, Colombia, is one of the oldest cities of the Spanish Main. Founded in 1533, it still contains much that is picturesque, mosque-like domes and Moorish towers, fortifications everywhere. Walls enclose the city, often with ramparts 30 feet high and from 40 to 100 feet wide, built to resist the pirates. Francis Drake and Morgan were among those who laid siege to the city.

Finds Sausages, Bananas of Similar Architecture

"Evidence of efforts to implant food wisdom in the Young Japanese mind is provided by the National Provisioner in a quotation from a sample of school composition.

"'The banana are great remarkable fruit. He are constructed in the same architectural style as the honourable sausage. Difference being skin of sausage are habitually consumed, while it are not adviceable to eat rapping of banana.

"'Banana are held aloft while consuming; sausage are usually left in reclining position. Sausage depend for creation on human being or stuffing machine, while banana are pristine product of honourable Mother Nature."

"'In case of sausage both conclusions are attached to other sausages; honourable banana, on the other hand, are joined on one end of the stem and opposite termination are entirely loose.'"

Bottomless Lake of Pitch

Trinidad, known as the "Land of Hummingbirds," attracts many visitors because of the famous Pitch lake at La Brea, a mysterious expanse of asphalt which appears to have no bottom, as holes left when the pitch is dug out fill up again immediately. In Trinidad one sees many Hindus, the men in elaborate turbans, silk blouses and flowing robes and the women wearing gold rings, anklets, heavy earrings and silver bracelets. Port of Spain, the principal city, has a population of 200,000, mostly black.

Illiteracy

The law stipulates that aliens over sixteen years of age must be able to read the English language or some other language or dialect, but exception is made in the case of persons physically incapable of reading; also, any admissible alien or any citizen of the United States may bring in or send for his father or grandfather, over fifty-five years of age, his wife, his mother, grandmother, unmarried or widowed daughter, provided they are otherwise admissible.

Composition of Snow

The atmosphere contains a small amount of ammonia and it is possible for the snow falling through the air to gather up some of this ammonia, just as it carries dust, minute organisms and impurities from the air. After the first snow has carries down these impurities, the remainder of the snow that falls is clean and practically pure. Newly fallen snow is very largely air, varying from three to thirty parts of air to one of ice crystals.

R. R. Bridge Across Tops of Trees

A railway runs across the tops of trees in California. At a spot near the coast there is a deep ravine, over which a way for the trains had to be made. To build a bridge of stone or iron was too costly, so it was determined to utilize the trees. The top branches were cut off at the level of the banks and the timbers for the line were laid on the stumps. This railway bridge is said to be quite safe. —London Tit-Bits.

Grim Jest

The story is told that in Texas years ago a bank president swindled his depositors, causing the sign to be displayed on the institution: "Bank Suspended." The embezzler was caught and promptly strung up, and under the tree the lynchers, with grim humor, placed the notice: "Bank President Suspended."—Boston Transcript.

WORLD PRODUCTION OF GOLD SPURRED

Scarcity and High Purchasing Power Cause.

Washington.—The search for gold is now being carried on at high speed. And, curiously enough, the reason is the economic depression. Whereas there is a surplus of most other products, gold is scarce and its purchasing power is high. In consequence prospectors are in the field in large numbers; old gold mines, abandoned because of poor yields, have been reopened and are proving profitable again; the gold centers of the world are unusually active; and gold stocks have reversed the trend of the market, going up instead of down.

Final figures for the world's gold production in 1932 have not yet been issued, but according to conservative estimates a new high of 23,500,000 fine ounces was reached.

In the United States, which ranks third in gold production in the world (South Africa is first and Canada second), the estimated total mined in 1932 was 2,507,587 ounces, valued at $51,836,400, according to official bureau of the mint figures. This was the highest yield since 1924.

Prospectors Reappear.

An interesting development of gold production in the United States last year was the reappearance in great numbers of the picturesque old-time prospectors, who had practically disappeared in recent years. There is always the chance of gold being found from Oregon to the Yosemite, and unemployment in the western states, particularly in California and Colorado, has sent a small army of the idle, armed with picks, shovels, pans and sluice boxes, into the mountains and valleys.

One expert of the bureau of mines estimated that 100,000 men are now engaged in such labors, as compared with perhaps 1,000 before the economic whirlwind hit the country.

Our Producing Areas.

The principal gold-producing areas in this country are in California, Alaska, South Dakota and Colorado, in the order named. Practically all the important mines in California produce "straight gold," and that is true of the Homestake mine in South Dakota, the largest individual producer, and of the mines of Alaska and Colorado.

Placer mining accounted for 20 per cent of the American production in 1929, which was considered a normal year, while lode mining produced 80 per cent. In the placers the gold is recovered from gravel and sand by hand washing, sluicing, hydraulicking, drifting or dredging, while the lode mines produce gold mainly from underground workings, from ore as distinguished from gravel.

Lawsuit Over Cemetery Recalls Death of Squaw

Fremont, Mich.—There is a dispute in court as to ownership of the old Indian cemetery between John Warmelink, owner of the farm from which the cemetery originally was taken, and the city of Fremont, which holds quit claim deeds from the heirs of the original owner, Henry Pego.

Henry Pego's farm was a half mile south of the city on what was then called Indian Town road, now Stuart street. Pego and a number of other Indians took up many farms from the government along this road.

Among the Indian residents was one Wab-e-cake. His squaw made some maple sugar, which she took to the home of Wilkes Stuart and exchanged for two dozen eggs. She boiled them hard and ate the whole two dozen. Within three hours she died in agony.

Henry Pego set aside a plot of ground to be used as an Indian cemetery, and Wab-e-cake's squaw was buried there. As time went on, other Indians also were buried there. Then, in 1885, Pego sold his farm to I. N. Robinson, but in the deed he reserved the cemetery.

Robinson failed to exempt this plot in his deed to the next owner, and from then on down to Warmelink, the deeds have included the burial plot. No owner, however, before Warmelink, ever made any attempt to occupy the premises.

The city was given a temporary injunction against Warmelink which they will attempt to make permanent. If this is accomplished, the stones in the cemetery will be replaced and a monument to the memory of the Indians will be erected.

"Oil" Well Yields Water

Seattle.—The state of Washington's deepest oil well so far has failed to produce oil, but instead has produced hot water, struck at about the 4,000-foot level. The water, with strong force, was 135 degrees. It was finally plugged off when drillers struck the 5,280-foot level. The well is now down to 6,725 feet and is located in Aberdeen.

Durability Passes

Style is a quality that must be considered in buying clothes now and style does not call for the old-time durability that appealed so strongly to our ancestors.—Woman's Home Companion.

Pig Iron

Pig iron is manufactured from iron ore, and is so called because in the older plants the metal as it comes from the blast furnaces flows through a trench into little branch trenches or molds, where it hardens into bars called pigs. Pig iron is sometimes called the raw material of the iron and steel industry, because from it most of our steel and commercial forms of iron are made.

Sea Cows

The manatee, or sea cow, is a large, lubberly animal that lives in the water and has flippers instead of legs, like the walrus and the whale. It is valuable both for its flesh and its oil and might also be a source of leather. These creatures feed largely on the manatee grass which abounds in the warm streams around the coasts of Florida.

Royal Color

Purple is the royal color because it was once the most expensive. The dye was obtained a drop at a time from a special shell fish.

Earthworms Hard Workers; Keep Soil Loose, Porous

The lowly earthworm is one of the most active forms of life living within the ground and upon the surface, and its activities are a tremendous benefit to the soil which it inhabits.

It is estimated that during the course of a year in an acre of ground normally supplied with worms, as much as 15 tons of soil in that acre pass through the bodies of the worms during the course of their feeding. The habit of the worms in feeding process is beneficial in that it keeps the ground loose and porous and at the same time takes decaying animal and vegetable matter from the surface of the ground down into the lower parts of the top soil where the roots of plants come in contact with it to their benefit.

The extent of the activity of worms in this burying process is great. Scientists who have studied the life of the earthworm believe that vegetable and animal matter discarded on the surface of the ground is buried as deep as two inches in the course of ten years through the activity of worms.—Boston Herald.

Emblem on American Dime Handed Down by Aesop

The idea for the emblem that appears on the American dime originally belonged to Aesop, who wrote his fables in the Sixth century B. C. The device means "In union there is strength," which is the moral brought out by Aesop.

The emblem was adopted by the United States, with 13 sticks, representing the colonies, to show that all had been strengthened by uniting; and at that time the motto, "E pluribus unum," meaning "one from many," was also adopted. Both the emblem and the motto have been official since the birth of the United States.

Mussolini adopted the idea from the original source for the same purpose of showing that in unity there is strength.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Horses Sold at 82 Cents

Warsaw.—The agricultural and economic crisis in Poland brought the price of horses sold at auction recently to 82 cents. One farmer sold his household furniture, and several head of live stock for $4.10

Many Lacquer Shades Are Available, but Not Named

To the man in the street, it has seemed that the number of individual automobile colors must be something close to infinite. It is not quite that bad, or good—whichever way one prefers to regard it—but figures show that 11,500 shades of lacquer have been developed, obviously far more than any genius could provide names for.

Just as a sample of the naming difficulty, take the color which the average mortal calls "gray." There are, the expert points out, 423 different values under this heading in the total list of 11,500. That, too, despite the fact that gray is not the most variable individual color.

It has been calculated that there is a considerable amount of waste in such prolixity in color creation. Even in the days when distinctiveness was a thing for which motor car buyers clamored, the maximum number of shades in a single month was never more than 200.—Washington Post.

Be Chary of Advice

Jud Tunkins says you can give advice that you are sure is for the best. But, in most cases, it's about as welcome as a spoonful of castor oil.—Washington Star.

Dipper Bird Walks Under Water in Search of Food

A small bird which has the appearance of a large wren and flies like a kingfisher is an extraordinary creature called the "dipper" from its habit of walking under water in search of food.

This bird is usually found around mountain streams. It cannot be mistaken, for its dark body with a snow-white breast shows it up at once.

No matter how fast the water may be dashing over boulders, you will see the dipper standing on a rock only a few inches above the swirling current, all the time dipping. If it wishes to fly from one point to another on the river, and the stream twists and turns through wild moorland, the dipper does not take a short cut across country, but follows the course of the stream. His food is found at the bottom of the river. A noted English naturalist says that he has often watched a dipper drop into the fast-running water to disappear for nearly a minute, then it comes up with some dainty morsel in its beak. In clear rivers he has seen this bird walking on the bottom, where it faces up stream so that as it turns over the stones, the hidden creatures in its seeking are washed towards it.—Philadelphia Record.

A medicine that does something for women

A woman is old at thirty when she has let herself run down.

And she is young at sixty if she knows how to keep clear of chronic sluggishness.

Have you never tried the harmless medicine that is made for this very condition? Do you know that two or three weeks of its gentle stimulation has done the most amazing things for lots of women?

This means of stimulating the system to new life is a doctor's prescription. It is known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is made from fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. From the day you begin with it, you will feel better; one spoonful disposes of any bilious headache; a larger dose relieves any constipated condition. A little now and then will keep you guarded from the auto-intoxication that dulls appetite and ambition in any man or woman.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is known to all druggists; they always have it on hand. It is the most likeable and remarkable medicine you ever tasted. Try one bottle and compare your condition with the way you felt before!

Perfect Attendance List Released at Pleasanton

During the school month which began March 27 and ended April 23, 196 students of the Pleasanton grammar school were neither late nor absent, according to a perfect attendance list released last week by V. Bernard Johnson, principal.

The seventh and eighth grades tied for first place on the list with 26 apiece; the third and fourth grades came second with 24 each; the fifth grade came next with 23; and the kindergarten had the least with only 13.

The list shows that over half of the total enrollment of the school had a perfect attendance record.

Pleasanton Masquers Make Hit With Comedy

Playing before a well-filled house at the Veterans Memorial building in Pleasanton, Thursday evening, April 20, the Pleasanton Masquers portrayed to perfection the three act comedy, 'Three Live Ghosts.' To attempt to pick out a star in the play is impossible, as the entire cast was outstanding in its performance. Johnny Ruppel, as an English war veteran, Andy Jorgensen as Spoofy, Mrs. Frances Apperson, as the landlady's daughter, Miss Alice Layton, as 'Old Sweetheart,' and Bob Cope, as an American buddy of the first two mentioned, all had parts that called forth laughter as well as displaying their dramatic talents in excellent shape. Miss Cenevive Smallwood, Miss Eleanor Rathke, Ed Silveria, Cliff Rosa and Pete Christesen each gave characterizations that were excellent.

Sponsored by the American Legion, the show was staged in a fine manner, and the hall was filled for the preformance. To Harry Tripp, director of the players, goes a great deal of credit for the satisfying results obtained.

Everyone was highly pleased with the show, and the Pleasanton Masquer need not fear that they will ever have to appear before an unpacked house as long as they continue their excellent and faithful presentation of shows of this type.

The American Legion is to be congratulated on the forward strides which it has taken, and it has now reached the point where the public knows that if the Legion is behind something it will go over the top.

APRICOT THINNING HEAVY NEAR NILES LATE LAST MONTH

Agitators Fail In Weak Attempt to Create Disturbance

Washington township farmers have almost completed thinning of the present apricot crop, according to statement of a labor contractor at Niles. Heavy setting of buds this spring has necessitated intensive thinning over most of the Santa Clara Valley. Also in the southern part of the valley are somewhat lighter than those in Washington township, but on the whole the 1933 tonnage will be equal to that of last year, growers' association officials say.

Fears that the agitators who disturbed the pea harvest would extend their meddling to apricots, have so far proved unfounded. Near Hayward last week some little trouble was started when a few disturbers tried to intimidate apricot thinners who were being paid $1.75 a day. Farmers hold that this is a high wage as wages go at the present time. In Santa Clara county apricot thinning was done for $1.00 to $1.25 for a nine-hour day, while Brentwood orchardists were paying eight cents a tree for relatively small trees.

Agitators at Hayward were insisting on a daily wage of $2.50 or a piece work price of twenty-five cents per tree. Since it is possible for one thinner to do around twelve trees a day, the demand of twenty-five cents was absurdly high, acocrding to local farmers.

Niles Librarian Speaks To Better Homes Group

Mrs. Emma Murray, librarian of the Jane Clough library at Niles, gave a short talk before the Better Homes, Libraries and Farm Bureau group when they visited the library last Friday. Mrs. Murray told of the donation of the edifice to the town by W. H. Ford, and voiced the opinion of many by saying that the function of the Niles branch library was greatly widened by the construction of such a complete building.

More than 2000 veterans from all over the county are expected to be there. Funds raised at the affair will be used to further relief work for disabled veterans and their dependants.

TROUT SEASON OPENS

Monday morning's first streaks of dawn saw local desciples of Isaac Walton with their tackle in hand, departing to various corners of the state where the streams run cold. Earl Teeter, of Niles, was the first one to bring in the limit, which he pulled out of brooks in the vicinity of Mount Hamilton. Teeter had a splendid catch, some of the finny ones being thirteen inches in length.
